Grief Grows Old

Eventhough we have come to the end of the November Novena, the Prayers in the parish Graveyards & Blessing of the Graves, we still continue to remember our loved ones in a special way during the rest of the month of the Holy Souls. We also remember all the bereaved and will pray especially for them at the "Mass for the Bereaved" in Ballygarvan church on November 20th.

Grief Grows Old

*God is good and grief grows old
Time plays its gentle part
Laying healing hands upon the red wounds of the heart.
The secret scars grow fainter with the passing of the years
Faith returns and joy comes back to wipe away the tears.*

*Gleams of sunlight steal in at the windows of the mind.
Hope revives. The future beckons.
Once again we find
Life has something sweet to offer.
Grey skies turn to gold.
Memories remain, but sorrows end.
And grief grows old.*

If we really knew just how much time was left for us, how many years or months or weeks we would cease to fret and fuss about the unimportant things that fill our lives today.
We should value Time and live each minute gratefully.
