

Mass at Mass Rock, Farlistown

Date: MONDAY

AUGUST 12th 2019

Time: 7.30pm

There is a cross-inscribed Mass Rock located at Farlistown, Ballinhassig at a place called “Crossanaifrin”

A new entrance to the field has recently been opened allowing easy access for all.

Ballinhassig Parish Assembly along with the help of other parishioners is organising a Mass at this historic sacred site. We will remember those who risked their lives to attend Mass at a time when the celebration of Mass was outlawed.

(John L. O’Sullivan, local historian will deliver a short history of the Mass Rock and Penal Times)

Mass at this site on August 12th will be for the first time in around 300 years.

Everybody welcome from within and outside the Parish

(Directions on the night from the Rising Sun)
